Eligibility

The Australian Defence Medal recognises Australian Defence Force personnel who have efficiently completed either:

- an initial enlistment period; or
- four years service;

whichever is the lesser and all of the relevant service was after 3 September 1945.

Included are former Defence Force members who did not complete the qualifying period because they:

- died in service;
- were medically discharged and the impairment was compensable at the time of discharge; or
- left the service due to a Defence workplace policy of the time (e.g. in the past a woman was required to resign on marriage).

World War II veterans are not eligible for the Australian Defence Medal unless they were demobilised, re-enlisted after 3 September 1945 and then met the above criteria.

The Australia Service Medal 1939-45 is the Australian award for the recognition of World War II service.

Who should use this form?

- Former Regular Defence Force members.
- Current and former Reserve Defence Force members.
- Those with a combination of Regular and Reserve service.
- Former national servicemen.

Current Regular Defence Force members will be automatically assessed for the award and therefore do not need to complete an application form.

Reserve Service

Current Reserve members should supply certification from their unit commanding officer stating that their service was efficient and in line with the eligibility criteria. For Reserves, the definition of 'efficient' for the Australian Defence Medal is the same as for long service awards.

The efficiency requirements are set out in Defence Instruction (General) Personnel 31-1.

You can find a copy of this instruction in the Application Forms section of our website:

www.defence.gov.au/medals

Former Reserve members should supply a certified true copy of their discharge certificate or statement of service. Do not send original documents. If you are unable to provide documentation the processing of your application may be delayed.

Documents

The provision of copies of official documents relating to your service will speed up the processing of your application.

Do not send original documents.

Copies of documents must be certified true copies. An authorised person, such as justice of the peace, can certify documents. Other authorised people include legal and medical practitioners, pharmacists, members of parliament, full-time teachers and police officers. A full list of who can certify documents is available on our website:

www.defence.gov.au/medals

Need more room?

If you require more space to complete any of the questions, please attach additional pages.

Posthumous awards

The Australian Defence Medal may be awarded to the estate of Defence Force members who are deceased and met the qualifying criteria, but a different form needs to be completed for posthumous awards.

For a copy of the Application for the Issue of Medals (including Posthumous Issue) visit our website: www.defence.gov.au/medals or phone 1800 111 321.
