The Coloured Digger

The 1942 poem written by Sapper, H.E. "Bert" Beros, NX6925, RAE, 2nd AIF, while on active service at Donadabu Rest Camp, Kokoda Track, Papua New Guinea, tells the story of the bravery of his mate, an Aboriginal, who attacked a Japanese machine-gun pit single-handed.

Recited by His Excellency the Honourable Andrew Bell,
Lieutenant Governor of NSW

*He came and joined the colours,
When the War God's anvil rang,
He took up modern weapons
To replace his boomerang,
He waited for no call-up,
He didn't need a push,
He came in from the stations
And the townships of the bush.*

*He helped when help was wanting,
Just because he wasn't deaf;
He is right amongst the columns
Of the fighting A.I.F.
He is always there when wanted,
With his Owen gun or Bren,
He is in the forward area,
The place where men are men.*

*He proved he's still a warrior,
In action not afraid,
He faced the blasting red-hot fire
From mortar and grenade;
He didn't mind when food was low,
And we were getting thin,
He didn't growl or worry then,
He'd cheer us with his grin.*

*He'd heard us talk Democracy –
They preach it to his face –
Yet knows that in our Federal House
There's no one of his race.
He feels we push his kinsmen out,
Where cities do not reach,
And Parliament has yet to hear
The abo's maiden speech.*

*One day he'll leave the Army,
Then join the League he shall,
And he hopes we'll give a better deal
To the aboriginal.*

*Australians all let us rejoice,
For we are one and free;
We've golden soil and wealth for toil,
Our home is girt by sea;
Our land abounds in nature's gifts
Of beauty rich and rare;
In history's page, let every stage
Advance Australia Fair.
In joyful strains then let us sing,
